The fire at Hardinsburg last Wednesday morning is estimated at a loss of $75,000, with insurance of $36,000. It originated in Walker's bakery about 4:30 o'clock, and by 6 o'clock it was under control.

Men, women and children all worked hard to check the fire. Only three homes burned, all the other houses being business stores and offices. The path of the fire went in a triangle from Shellman's store to the Methodist church, and from there to Hook's residence. The church saved many other buildings.

Fire Notes.

"It could have been so much worse," Weren't we fortunate, "Not so bad as Cloverport," and other remarks of cheer and thankfulness could be heard all day Wednesday while the bricks from the wall at Beard's kept falling in lots of three and four all day. This large brick wall was built against Beard's store as a fire protection, and it served its purpose in saving the Methodist church.

George Riley Hook saved the Methodist church and a purse of $25 was given him for his heroic work.

Walter R. Hensley, master of trains, had a special sent out from Irvington as soon as the fire alarm was heard, and fifty-eight men reached the county seat when they were most needed. The Hardinsburg people were worn out and the Irvington men were a great relief to them and helped get the fire under control.

B. F. Beard & Company opened their store in the City Hall.

Jas. Gardner will rebuild.

Lester Pool, living in the Cox property, lost nearly all his household goods.

The Cumberland Telephone Company was put out of business for four hours only. Their loss was $2,300. Mr. Lincoln got the lines in order by 10 o'clock. Mr. Jaboc, the district manager, of Owensboro, went to Hardinsburg on the morning train and got the exchange on its feet by afternoon. Mr. Jaboc says the telephone is the most marvelous service of the commercial world and it rarely ever fails to be ready to answer every call. Men do not hesitate, who know the value of the line, to pay $18 and $25 for a message. Their results pay them.

Records of the Breckinridge Lodge No. 67, chartered in 1821, and signed by Henry Clay Grand Master, and the records of every meeting since 1821, and an old Bible were all burned.

Those who will rebuild: B. F. Beard & Co., Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co., Mrs. Bert McGary, J. H. Gardner and Kincheoe Pharmacy. Location of those who were burned out: J. H. Gardner in Hensley's warehouse, B. F. Beard & Co. in City Hall, Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co. in the sheriff's office, E. McDavis in Farmers Bank, Kincheoe Pharmacy in part of Teaff's store, Claud Mercer's office with J. R. Eskridge, Cumberland Telephone Co., in Farmers Bank, Dr. W. A. Walker, in Allen Kincheoe's, Haswell's Grocery in a tent, and Walker's Bakery will be located soon. Ten stores, one bank and three dwellings were burned. Some say it was a $150,000 fire. Several did not carry any insurance. Every carpenter and workman in town are busy. Hope soon to have all cleaned up.

Dr. Royalty had the worst looking wreck in his office in the Farmers Bank you ever saw. His damage was about $300. It was fully covered by insurance.

Insure with Paul Compton, Hardinsburg, Ky.

First Loss Paid.

The Aetna Insurance Company, represented by Paul Compton, Hardinsburg, Ky., was the first to pay loss caused by fire on the 14th, inst. They paid John P. Haswell, Sr., $1400.00.

Card of Thanks From Hardinsburg Citizens

The citizens of Hardinsburg appreciate very much the expressions of sympathy and good will, assistance and offers of assistance, received from our neighbors in the country and neighboring towns. We especially appreciate the quick grasp of the situation by Mr. Hensley in his rushing of a special train of his employees and citizens of Irvington, fresh, ready for work and armed with buckets. It was unquestionably their timely arrival which saved a large section of our town from destruction. Committee.

Insurance Companies.

The following Fire Insurance Companies were represented at the Hardinsburg fire:

Hartford Fire Insurance Co., of Hartford, Conn., National Fire Insurance Co., of Hartford, Conn., Aetna Fire Insurance Co., of Hartford, Conn., Niagara Fire Insurance Co., of New York, Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society Limited, of Norwich, New York Underwriters Agency, of New York, Fireman's Fund Insurance Co., Liverpool & London & Globe.

The entire insurance was written by Paul Compton, of Hardinsburg, Ky., who represents these as well as a number of other good Companies.

Card of Thanks.

We take this means of thanking our friends for their heroic work of saving our stock of goods from the disastrous fire of last Wednesday.

Respectfully,
Kincheoe's Pharmacy,

SPLENDID NEW BUILDING BURNED.

Bank of Hardinsburg And Trust Company Let Out Contract Before Ruined Walls Got Cold --Will Have a Home to Meet Their Convenience.

READY FOR BUSINESS.

The Bank of Hardinsburg and Trust Company had the vision of their handsome new building while the old one was being wrapped in flames. And before the walls were cold, plans were discussed for their new home. The contract has already been let for a handsome two story pressed brick building. Every convenience, water and lights, and all the up-to-date banking equipments will be installed.

The Bank will not lose a dollar which speaks for the Company's foresight in its own business as well as in those entrusted to it by its large patronage. When Mr. Morris Beard, the president, saw the bank would burn the safe was set up three days ahead and left in perfect confidence. Mr. Paul Compton, the Cashier, went to Irvington Wednesday to receive money from Louisville and the Company was opened for business the next morning in the Sheriff's office of the Court House. Mr. Compton said Wednesday, "We will have one, if not the best equipped banks in Kentucky," and Mr. Beard said, "We will have the room and conveniences that our business has been demanding for some time."

ANNOUNCEMENT

Hardinsburg, Ky., May 9, 1913.

TO THE VOTERS OF BRECKENRIDGE COUNTY:

For reasons satisfactory to myself, and which I consider to be the best interests of the Democratic party, I hereby withdraw as a candidate for County Judge and announce myself as a candidate for Sheriff of Breckenridge county.

While I am well known to many of the people of my county, I take this occasion to remind you that whatever success I have attained as a business man, has been by my own efforts and by ceaseless toil and approved business methods. I was one of twenty-one children of an honest and honorable, but poor, father. As a country boy, I bought a $100.00 second-hand saw mill, and, by self denial and continued effort, finally got a start and engaged in the general milling business, in Hardinsburg. I sold out a year ago and since have been endeavoring to round up my business. I have always extended credit to those worthy, and have tried to be a useful man in the community. I am one of a large family of Democrats and we always do our party duty.

While I have never asked anything of my party, I have always had my shoulder to the wheel, when I was needed, and have contributed liberally of my time and means in all campaigns. If you nominate and elect me, I feel that I would be in position to give you a good business administration of the affairs of my office, and would be able to collect and pay over the taxes with less distress to the man of small means than almost anyone else.

"A Business Administration of County Affairs" should be the Democratic platform, I think.

Respectfully submitted,

T. J. HOOK

for such work he is to receive $400, which was objected to by J. R. Eskridge, county attorney, for the reason it was not let to the lowest bidder, and was not necessary to go back further than 15 years. Squire S. H. Dix voted nay because it wasn't in the latest improved style and let to the lowest bid.

Came Justice G. A. Wright and offered the following resolution viz:

Whereas, it appears that on yesterday, (April 1, 1913), this court undertook to elect a County Treasurer for Breckenridge county, and whereas, it seems that the County Judge was mistaken as to his and our duties in the premises, and through him and others, we were misinformed as to our privileges, powers and duties in the premises.

Therefore be it resolved by this court that we rescind and revoke and hold for naught our action on yesterday for the reason that we are now of the opinion from an examination of the Statutes and decisions under the same, that we did not proceed regularly and did proceed irregular and illegally, in as much as we are now of the opinion from reading the decision of the court of Appeals construing this Statute in the case of Bath Company ex rel Brown vs. Daugherty 69 S. W. page 426, and from reading 938 of the Kentucky Statutes we are now convinced that before electing or undertaking to elect a County Treasurer it was first necessary for this court to consider, discuss and vote on the necessity and advisability of creating or establishing such an office, and that no power except this court can determine this position.

Now in order that we may proceed regularly and legally, it is ordered that the order under which we undertook to elect a County Treasurer as above set out be rescinded, revoked and held for naught, and moved its adoption seconded by Squire B. A. Whittinghill and the vote being taken the resolution was declared lost.

It is ordered by the Court that the position of Commissioner and Receiver of Breckenridge County be and the same is hereby abolished, and G. D. Shell-Com'r Rec' of Breckenridge County is ordered and directed to pay into the hands of Paul Compton, treasurer, the sum of $250 per annum, payable quarterly.

It is further ordered that the position of Commissioner and Receiver of Breckenridge County be and the same is hereby abolished, and Allen R. Com'r Rec' of Breckenridge County is ordered and directed to pay into the hands of Paul Compton, Treasurer-elect, the sum of $50,000, be now reduced and fixed in the penal sum of $25,000, said motion being voted upon, was carried and is made the order of court.

Upon motion of Squire Whittinghill, seconded by Squire Quiggins, while motion carried, it is ordered that the salary of Paul Compton, County Treasurer, be and the same is fixed at the sum of $250 per annum, payable quarterly.

Moved by Squire Harris, seconded by Squire Dix, that the amount of the bond of the County Treasurer heretofore fixed in the sum of $50,000, be now reduced and fixed in the penal sum of $25,000, said motion being voted upon, was carried and is made the order of court.

This day came Dennie Sheeran, sheriff, and S. W. Bassett, C. A. Tucker, R. O. Perkins and A. T. Beard, his deputies, who after being duly sworn according to statute, turned into and presented to court their lists of delinquents for the year of 1912, as follows:

The Farmers Bank Building

But for the fire resisting qualities of this substantial and well built building, Hardinsburg's loss would have been $150,000 or $200,000 instead of $75,000. All the buildings west of this building, including the Court House, would have gone up in flames. The Directors are proud of this building, and proud of its saving so much valuable property.

Those who wish a good, safe place to do their Banking Business, we will be glad to take care of them.
JNO. D. SHAW, Cashier.

HARDINSBURG.

A thankful heart is not only the greatest virtue, but the parent of all other virtues.—Cicero.

The people of Hardinsburg are possessors of thankful hearts in that the fire was checked before sweeping the entire town. But for the timely help from our neighbors we might now be in ruins. Help came from Harned in twenty minutes after they received the alarm. The "bucket brigade" from Irvington arrived just in the nick of time. All who were here had about given out, and they saved one street from going up in flames. The wisest man that ever lived said: "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly." So we consider that every one that came to our aid at this time are our friends, and we hope they will accept the gratitude of the community at large.

SERIOUS ERROR IN CLOVERPORT

Cloverport Citizens Will Do Well To Profit By The Following.

Many fatal cases of kidney disease have reached an incurable stage because the patient did not understand the symptoms. Even today in Cloverport, there are many residents making the same serious error. They attribute their mysterious aches and pains to overwork, or worry, perhaps, when all the time their rheumatic pains, backache and bladder irregularities are most probably due to weak and ailing kidneys. If you are ill, if your kidneys are out of order, profit by this Cloverport resident's experience.

L. V. Chapin, Cloverport, Ky., says: "I was in bad shape with kidney trouble. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended, I went to Fisher's Drug Store and got a box. One box cured me. I have had no need of a kidney medicine since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

LOOK! LISTEN!

Do you know that the old reliable Aetna Insurance Company, represented by Paul Compton, paid me my loss of $1,400 in full, on my stock of goods and storehouse, within 48 hours after it occurred? This was very pleasing to us, besides a great big help in our great loss.

We want to say to our friends and customers that we have moved across the street, opposite our old place, in a tent, where we have a full stock of groceries. Call and see us until we rebuild, which will be in a short time.

We also want to thank our friends in Louisville for their kind letters and offers of assistance.

The loses and insurance and several notes of interest are given as follows:

Cloverport can sympathize with Hardinsburg. The towns are no longer rivals when it comes to fires. Each town knows what it means to have its own heart in ashes and to have the work of a lifetime eaten up by flames. Hardinsburg will miss the old land-marks —the houses that were over a hundred years old and the original stands of her oldest and best citizens. The shop where Mr. John P.
Haswell, Sr., made saddlery for 65 years is gone; the old storehouse of Mr. B. F. Beard, one of the first to supply the county seat with every needed necessity for the home and family, is a memory. The printing press is wrecked, and the town no longer has the honor of being the home of a newspaper. But with all these losses, Hardins-burg saved more than she lost—her citizens, her homes, the Court House, the Farmers Bank and other business buildings. She came through the flames with good cheer and new ambitions; and we are glad for Hardinsburg today that last Wednesday's conflagration did not overwhelm those who suffered with discouragement. May the town rebuild, be benefitted, and save as a place every Monday, is our sincere wish today.

MAKING HARD WATER SOFT

Addition of Proper Quantity of Quicklime Will Bring It to the Desired Condition.

Many well waters have from 16 to 18 degrees of hardness, while even river and lake waters may have from 5 to 25 degrees. Hardness is usually due to the presence of compounds of lime and magnesia dissolved out of the soils and rocks. The lime salts do most of the damage by curdling
the soap and preventing its cleansing action. The curdled soap remains in the water, sticks to the fibers of the cloth, and is very difficult to remove by washing, even with hot water.
Water of ten degrees of hardness will prevent the action of seventeen pounds of soap per thousand gallons of water, while water of twenty degrees of hardness will prevent the action of thirty-four pounds of soap per thousand gallons of water.

Much of the hardness of water may be removed by the addition of two pounds of quick lime to one thousand gallons of water of average hardness. This will not remove more than about three-quarters of the hardness of the water, but it can be still further softened by adding a little washing soda.

LITTLE GENERAL FARM PAYS

Profit Secured in Poultry as Well as Horses, Mules, Dairy Stock,
Sheep and Hogs.

(By W. H. SHEPARD.)

A neighbor of ours makes poultry a strong side line of his farming. He grows a great variety of plants and keeps and feeds a variety of animals.

His poultry sales amount to nearly $200 each year and he feeds his grown chickens nothing except what they pick up about the place, but through his methods of cropping and feeding they secure an abundance, and respond accordingly.

The same neighbor keeps and grows horses and mules, dairy stock, sheep and hogs.

From the poultry and cows he has a constant daily cash income.

From the horses and mules he sells each year one or two animals at $100 or more a piece.

From the sheep he has wool to sell in early spring, and lambs later in the summer, and from the hogs he sells from $100 to $200 worth every two or three months.

He grows wheat, oats, corn, hay and a variety of forage crops, besides a good orchard, truck patches, and garden from which nearly all the family eatables are grown, with some fruits and vegetables to sell.

He also sells from $100 to $200 worth of wheat each year, and his dairy products amount to $400 per year, and all from a farm of less than 100 acres.

Any general farmer who plans and executes can grow a variety of plants and animals on a small farm, make good money from the crops, and at the same time build up his land faster than by special cropping.

Japan Displays Naval Strength.

Japan's naval strength was paraded in the review held off Yokohama, the first spectacular event in the reign of the new emperor. Yoshihito reviewed 45 battleships and cruisers, destroyers, submarines and torpedo boats—113 in line. It was much like Colonel Roosevelt's review of the fleet off Oyster Bay when he was president, but a distinctly modern note was added by the Japanese in the two hydro-aeroplanes flying over the warships, as well as the big German dirigibles that floated high in the air.

Among the vessels in line were three battleships and three cruisers captured from the Russians. According to the American schedule, these would have been marked "obsolete" long ago.
The prime battleships of ten years ago are ranked no higher than cruisers now, and only dreadnoughts are counted as battleships of the line. Deterioration is the weakness of the Japanese navy. But new battleships cost $10,000,000 apiece, the Japanese are groaning under heavy taxes and it probably will take all the influence of the Mikado, as well as a war scare or so to induce the diet to appropriate the immense sums required to carry out Admiral Salto's program of naval expansion.

CHAPTER X.

BUENOS dias, Senor." Carara bowed politely to Speed.
"Good-morning again," said Wally.
Turning to the trainer, Carara eyed him from top to toe, removed his cigarette, and flipped the ashes daintily from it; then, smiling disdainfully, said:
"Buenos dias, Senor Fat!"
Glass started. "You talkin' to me?"
"Yes," Carara leaned languidly against the wall, took a match from his pocket, and dextrously struck it between the nails of his thumb and finger. He breathed his lungs full of smoke and exhaled it through his nose. "I would have spik to you bifore, but the Senor Fat is—he shrugged his shoulders—"frighten" so bad he will not understand." So I come back."

"Who's scared?" said Glass, gruffly.
Carara turned his palm outward, in gentle apology.
"You been talk' a gret deal to my Senorita—to Mariadetta, eh?"
"Oh, the Cuban Queen!" Glass winked openly at Speed. "Sure! I slip her a laugh now and then."
"She is not Cubana, she is Mexicana," said Carara, politely.
"Well, what d'you think of that! I thought she was a Cuban." Glass began to chuckle.

"Senor Fat," broke in the Mexican, sharply, while Larry winced at the distasteful appellation, "she is my Senorita!"

"Is she? Well, I can't help it if she falls for me." The speaker cast an appreciative glance at his employer. "And you can cut out that 'Senor Fat,' because it don't go—"
Then he gasped, for Carara slowly drew from inside his shirt a long, thin-bladed knife bearing marks of recent grinding, and his black eyes snapped. His face had become suddenly convulsed, while his voice rang with the tone of chilled metal. Glass retreated a step, a shudder ran through him, and his eyes riveted themselves upon the weapon with horrified intensity.
"Listen, Pig! If you spik to her again, I will cut you." The gaze of the Mexican pierced his victim. "I will not keel you, I will just—cut you!"

Speed, who had sat in open-mouthed amazement during the scene, pinched himself. Like Larry, he could not remove his gaze from the swarthy man. He pulled himself together with an effort, however, undertaking to divert the present trend of the conversation.
"W—where will you cut him?" he asked, pleasantly, more to make conversation than from any lingering question as to the precise location.
"Here," Carara turned the blade against himself, and traced a cross upon his front, whereupon the trainer gurgled and laid protecting hands upon his protruding abdomen. "You spik Spanish?"

"No," Glass shook his head.
"But you understand what I try to say?"

"Yes—oh yes—I'm hep all right."
"And the Senor Fat will r-remember?"

"Sure!" Glass sighed miserably, and tearing his eyes away from the glittering blade, rolled them toward

"The Fat Senor Will Not Spik Wit' Her Again?"

his employer. "I don't want her! Mr. Speed knows I don't want her!"
Carara bowed. "And the Fat Senor will not spik wit' her again?"
"No!"
"Gracias, Senor! I thank you!"
"You're welcome!" agreed the New Yorker, with repressed feeling.
"Adios! Adios, Senor Speed!"
"Goodbye!" exclaimed the two in chorus.

Carara returned the knife to its hiding-place, swept the floor gracefully with his sombrero, then placing the spangled head-piece at an exact angle upon his raven locks, lounged out, his silver spurs tinkling in the silence.

"He doesn't mean to kin you—just cut you," said Speed.
"I got it," declared the other, fervently. Again he laid his repressing hands upon his bulging front and looked down at it tenderly. "They've all got it in for my pad, haven't they?"
"I told you to keep away from that girl."

"Humph!" Glass spoke with soulful conviction. "Take it from me, Bo, I'll walk around her as if she was a lake. Who'd ever think that chorus-man was a killer?"
"Surely you don't care for her seriously?"
"Not now. I—I love my Cuban, but—he quivered apprehensively—

"I'll bet that rummy packs a 'shiv' in every pocket."

From outside the bunk-house came the low, musical notes of a quail, and Glass puckered his lips to answer, then grew pale. "That's her," he declared, in a panic. "I've got a date with her."

"Are you going to keep it?"
"Not for a nose-bag full of gold nuggets! Take a look, Wally, and see what she's doing."

Speed did as directed. "She's waiting."

"Let her wait," breathed the trainer. "Here comes Stover and Willie."

"More bad news," Glass unrolled his prayer-rug, and stepped upon it hastily. "Say, what's that word? Quick! You know! The password. Quick!"

"Allah!"

"That's her!" The fat man began to mumble thickly. It was plain that his spirit was utterly broken.

But this call was prompted purely

"There's Something for You."

by solicitude, it seemed. Willie had little to say, and Stover, ignoring all mention of the earlier encounter he had witnessed, exclaimed:

"There's been some queer goin'-on 'round here, Mr. Speed. Have you noticed 'em?"

"No. What sort?"

"Well, the other mornin' I discovered some tracks through one of Miss Jean's flower-beds."

"Tracks!"

"Sure! Strange tracks. Man's tracks."

"What does that signify?"

"We ain't altogether certain. Carara says he seen a stranger hangin' 'round night before last, and jest now we found where a boss had been picketed out in the ravine. Looks like he'd stood there more'n once."

"It has nothing to do with me."

"I ain't sure. It looks to us like it's somebody from the Centipede. They're equal to any devilment."

Speed showed an utter lack of comprehension, so Willie explained.

"Understand, we've made this race pay or play. Mebbe they aim to cripple you."

"Me!" Speed started. "Good heavens!"

"Oh, they'd do it quick enough! I wouldn't put it past 'em to drop a 45

"Shoot me, you mean?"

"Allah!" said Glass, devoutly from his corner.

Stover and Willie nodded. "If I was you, I'd keep the lamp between me and the winder every night."

"Why, this is abominable!" exclaimed the young college man, stiffly. "I—I can't stand for this, it's getting too serious."

"There ain't nothin' to fear," said Willie, soothingly. "Remember, I told you at the start that we'd see there wasn't no crooked work done. Well, I'm goin' to ride herd on you, constant, Mr. Speed." He smiled in a manner to reassure. "If there's any shootin' comes off, I'll be in on it."

"S—say, what's to prevent us being murdered when we're out for a run?" queried Glass.

"Me!" declared the little man. "I'll saddle my bronc' an' lope along with you. We'll keep to the open country."

Instantly Speed saw the direful consequences of such a procedure, and summoned his courage to say: "No. It's very kind of you, but I shall give up training."

"What!"

"I mean training on the road. I—I'll run indoors."

"Not a bit like it," declared Stover. "You'll get your daily run if we have to lay off all the punches on the place and put 'em on as a body-guard. We can't let you get hurt. You're worth too much to us."

"Larry and I will take a chance."

"Not for mine!" firmly declared the trainer. "I don't need no mineral in my system. I'm for the house."

"Then I shall run alone."

"You're game," said Willie admiringly, and his auditor breathed easier, "but we can't allow it."

"I—I'd rather risk my life than put you to so much trouble."

"It's only a pleasure."

"Nevertheless, I can't allow it. I'll run alone, if they kill me for it."

"Oh, they won't try to kill you. They'll probably shoot you in the legs. That's just as good, and it's a heap easier to get away with."

Speed felt his knee-caps twitching. "I've got it!" said he at last. "I'll run at night!"

Stover hesitated thoughtfully.

"I don't reckon you could do yourself justice that-away, but you might do your trainin' at daylight. The Centipede goes to work the same time we do, and the chances is your assassin won't miss his breakfast."

"Good! I—I'll do that!"

"I sure admire your courage, but if you see anything suspicious, let us know. We'll git 'em," said Willie.

"Thank you."

The two men went out, whereupon Glass chattered:

"W—what did I tell you? It's worse'n suicide to stick around this farm. I'm going to blow."

"Where are you going?"

"New York. Let's beat it!"

"Never!" exclaimed the college man, stubbornly. "We'll hear from Covington before long. Besides, I can't leave until I get some money from home."

"Let's walk."

"Don't be a fool!"

"Then I've got to have a drink."

Glass started for the living-quarters, but at the door ducked quickly out of sight. "She's there!" he whispered tragically. "She seen me, too!"

Mariadetta was squatting in the shade opposite, her eyes fixed stolidly upon the training-quarters.

"Then you've got to lay low till she gives up," declared Wally. "We're in trouble enough as it is."

For nearly an hour the partners discussed the situation while the Mexican maid retained her position; then, when Glass was on the verge of making a desperate sally, Cloudy entered silently. Although this had been an unhappy morning for the trainer, here at least was one person of whom he had no fear, and his natural optimism being again to the fore, he greeted the Indian lightly.

"Well, how's the weather, Cloudy?"

"Mr. Cloudy to you," said the other. Both Glass and his protege stared. It was the first word the Indian had uttered since their arrival. Lawrence winked at his companion.

"All right, if you like it better. How's the weather, Mister Cloudy?"

He snickered at his own joke, whereupon the aborigine turned upon him slowly, and said, in perfect English:

"Your humor is misplaced with me. Don't forget, Mr. Glass, that the one Yale football team you trained, I dropped a goal on from the forty-five-yard line."

Glass allowed his mouth to open in amazement. The day was replete with surprises.

"'96!" he said, while the light of understanding came over him. "You're Cloudy-but-the-Sun-Shines?"

"Yes—Carlisle." Cloudy threw back his head, and pointed with dignity to the flag of his Alma Mater hanging upon the wall.

"By Jove, I remember that!" exclaimed Speed.

"So will Yale so long as she lives," predicted the Indian, grimly. "You crippled me in the second half"—he stirred his withered leg—"but I dropped it on you; and—I have not forgotten." He ground the last sentence between his teeth.

"See here, Bo—Mr. Cloudy. You don't blame us for that?"

Cloudy grunted, and threw a yellow envelope on the floor at Speed's feet. "There is something for you," said he, while his lips curled. He turned, and limped silently to the door.

"And I tried to kid him!" breathed Glass with disgust, when the visitor had gone. "I ain't been in right since Garfield was shot."

"It's a telegram from Covington!" cried Speed, tearing open the bag sage. "At last!"

"Thank the Lord!" Glass started forward eagerly. "When'll he be here? Quick!" Then he paused. J. Wallingford Speed had gone deathly pale, and was reeling slightly. "What's wrong?"

The college man made uncertainly for his bed, murmuring incoherently: "I—I'm sick! I'm sick, Larry!" He fell limply at full length, and groaned, "Call the race off!"

Glass snatched the missive from his employer's nerveless fingers, and read, with bulging eyes, as follows:

"J. Wallingford Speed, Flying Heart Ranch, Kidder, N. M."

"Don't tip off. Am in jail Omaha. Looks like ten days."

"CULVER COVINGTON."

The trainer uttered a cry like that of a wounded animal.

"Call it off, Larry," moaned the Hope of the Flying Heart. "I've been poisoned!"

"Poisoned, eh?" said the fat man, tremulously. "Poisoned! Nix! Not with me!" He walked firmly across the room, flung back the lid of Speed's athletic trunk, and began to paw through it feverishly. One after another he selected three heavy sweaters, then laid strong hands upon his protegee and jerked him to his feet. "Sick, eh? Here, get into these!"

"What do you mean, Lawrence?" inquired his victim.

"If you get sick, I die." Glass opened the first sweater, and half-smothered his protegee with it. "Hurry up! You're going into training!"

Artificial Limbs.

Under the laws relating to artificial limbs and apparatus, or commutation therefor, the surgeon-general of the army gave orders during the last fiscal year for 94 legs, 1 foot and 5 arms.

He issued commutation certificates for 1,557 cases of amputated leg, 1,569 of amputated arm, 40 of amputated foot, and 1,777 cases of loss of use of limb.

Under the act of June 17, 1870, and subsequent amendments to that law, the surgeon-general furnished artificial limbs or apparatus to 23,527 disabled soldiers and sailors. Of this number 13,851 have died; 592 have been dropped from the rolls, and 571 have been rejected. At the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, 8,513 remained on the rolls, a loss of 893 beneficiaries during the year.

The war department has estimated that $85,000 will be required to pay the claims coming due during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914.

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"My sister's husband had an attack of rheumatism in his arm," writes a well known resident of Newton, Iowa. "I gave him a bottle of Chamberlin's Liniment which he applied to his arm and on the next morning the rheumatism was gone." For chronic muscular rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlin's Liniment Sold by All Dealers.

Witty Answer.

Mary Garden, the singer, attended a dinner in St. Petersburg, and the guest was a noted Russian general, who was placed next to Miss Garden. The general was very dignified and cold in manner. Miss Garden found him rather hard to converse with, which fact was noticed by the woman on her other side. The woman, knowing the singer very well, whispered to her:

"Why don't you tell the general that you will sing for him, Mary? It might make him less chilly."

"Well," said the witty opera favorite, "every one to his trade, you know. I am waiting for him to fire a cannon."—Judge.

After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN. Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS: Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such a fearful bearing down feeling, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

"THE GREATEST KIDNEY REMEDY ON EARTH" SAYS A GRATEFUL WOMAN.

I want to tell you how much good your Swamp-Root did me. About four years ago, I suffered from what the doctors called fistula and for two years of that time, I endured what no tongue can tell. I also had inflammation of the bladder and I tried doctors' medicines without receiving any help. Someone told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

After giving it a thorough trial, I received relief, so kept on using it and to day I am a strong and well woman. If I ever feel badly or out of sorts, I take Swamp-Root and it always straightens me out. I honestly believe that this medicine would cure all troubles you recommend it for, and it is a pleasure for me to send my testimony and photograph to you. I think Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is one of the greatest medicines on earth.

Respectfully yours,

You Will Need Extra Power

WHEN you buy your engine, get it big enough to do more than your present work. If it's an IHC engine it will last a long time. Your farm work is bound to increase in volume. Very likely you can save yourself the price of another engine later, by getting an engine a size larger than you need now. When you buy an engine powerful enough to handle your work easily while running at the correct speed you add years to its life. Get your engine big enough and buy an

IHC Oil and Gas Engine

You can use it to run any farm machine—pump, saw, feed grinder, cream separator, grindstone and on up to a husker and shredder or thrasher—depending on the size of the engine you buy. The power is so economical, so steady and dependable that IHC engines are in daily use in printing offices, laundries, bakeries, machine shops, mills and factories.

An IHC oil and gas engine will deliver 10 to 30 per cent above its rated horse power. All parts are carefully, accurately ground and perfectly balanced. Combustion is perfect and the maximum power is secured.

Sizes—1 to 50-horse power. Styles—stationary, portable, skidded, vertical, horizontal, tank-cooled, hopper-cooled, air-cooled. Fuels—gas, gasoline, naphtha, kerosene, distillate or alcohol. "Yes Sir! Studebaker wagons are made to back up a reputation."

"I know, because wagons of every make come into my shop for repairs, and I have a chance to see how few are Studebakers."

That's the opinion of thousands of blacksmiths who know the quality of Studebaker wagons.

The owners never regretted that they bought Studebakers.

Tested materials, accurate workmanship insure a wagon unequalled for durability, and this careful selection of wood, iron, steel, paint and varnish has been a fixed rule with the Studebaker Company for sixty years. That is why a Studebaker wagon runs easiest and lasts longest. It is built on honor.

Whether you live in town or country, there is a Studebaker vehicle to fill your requirements for business or pleasure—and harness of every description made as carefully as are Studebaker vehicles.
